Concern shared from a student:

Trojan Consul met with Kevin Wren Tuesday morning and he expressed concerns regarding why students don't feel safe on campus. After discussing this with many students, one major concern among the student body is the fact that there is not a known processes or procedure in the event of an emergency during peak time or third block. With the recent gang threats that have occurred on social media and on campuses this year alone, many students are concerned that there may be an emergency during one of these times and no one will know what to do or where to go especially in regards to the cafeteria.
